A No. 2 foot can't expect to get much in its stocking.

CHICAGO achieves another triumph. The Cronin verdict is another feather in her cap.

THERE is something wrong with the child who doesn't sleep with both eyes open these nights.

It is the common remark of visitors that Wheeling men are working men. Idleness is not fashionable here.

The business activity of Wheeling reflects itself in the home press. The pages of the Intelligencer show the busy men and what they have to sell. This is a great season for business in Wheeling.

O, the sweet delirium of the Christmas time! The scheming, the wishing, the shopping, the billing, the wondering whether he will like it and she will be pleased. Who would blot out the Christmas if he could?

From the hubbub in the Chicago newspapers it might have been thought that Javor Culver was to be hanged, if he did not agree with his fellow jurors. It was better to let the worst criminals go free than to resort to such pressure on jurors. Such a course is not many degrees above the arts of the jury-fixer.

The President is in no hurry to remove Democratic postmen before the expiration of their terms. The politicians of the party are not unanimous in their praise of this policy, but it must be admitted that the people are not rising up in rebellion. If each party were to pursue the same policy it would meet with general approval, and doubtless it will come to this.

The gossamer continues to be busy with Governor Foraker. This time he is to be sent as Minister to Russia, as one story says, to get him out of the way, according to another "Intelligent Contraband," to get him in training for the next Presidential nomination. It is enough for the present to say that Governor Foraker would represent his country with credit at any foreign court.

The Cronin Conspirators.

In the nature of the case there will be great disappointment because nobody in the Cronin conspiracy is to be hanged. There will be more disappointment because Beggs is acquitted. As for the little fellow Kuna, it would seem that if he does not deserve more than three years' imprisonment for his part in the job, he too, should have been acquitted.

On the whole, taking into account all the circumstances, the verdict is to be regarded as satisfactory. Though nobody is to be hanged for a crime the most revolting in our history, three of the conspirators are to pass the remainder of their lives in the penitentiary, sentences which will certainly be served unless beyond doubt their innocence. This something will never arise. The case against the three was clearly established.

If severity of punishment be the end desired, a life term is infinitely more severe than capital punishment, which exhausts itself in a few minutes. As for Beggs, there was a strong case of suspicion against him, as there was against some others not on trial, but the case was not clearly made out.

In view of all the difficulties surrounding the case, the deep laid plans of the conspirators to cover up the evidence of their guilt, the efforts to corrupt the jury, the open resort to bull-dozing tactics, Chicago and the country are to be congratulated on the verdict. It vindicates the majesty of the law. It shows that in this country there is no toleration for such a crime.

The one thing to be regretted is that there were men high up in the council of conspiracy who have not been caught and are likely to grow wily of justice.

HOLIDAY PUBLISHING.

Some New Things and Some Good Old Things.

It was a happy thought of Mr. Edward T. Mason's to bring together in a dainty little volume a choice collection of the classic fairy verse of English literature. In the familiar and convenient form of the "Kickerbocker Nuggets" we have such treasures as "The Water Lady," by Thomas Hood; "The Mountain Sprite," by Thomas Moore; Keats's "La Belle Dame Sans Merci"; Hog's "Kilnseye"; Coleridge's "The Ancient Mariner"; "Allegiance," "The Prince of the Desert," and others in the same delightful realm of fancy. This real budget is embellished with illustrations after designs by Miss Humphrey—G. F. Putnam's Sons, New York. Stanton & Davenport, Wheeling.

"Our Baby's Book" is really our baby's mother book, for it is the mother, particularly the young mother, who will find it the joy forever and a day in these pretty pages every thing that happens to baby from the day he arrives until he puts on a dandy coat and a dandy hat—Lee & Shepard, Boston. Stanton & Davenport, Wheeling.

J. Pauline Suter has designed three exquisite little holiday greetings on gilded cards bound with ribbon, silver chains attached. Children and birds and flowers make the leaves attractive. Art quotations accompany each picture. The little books are "One Merry Christmas Time," "A Happy New Year to You," and "Hurray for the New Year."—Lee & Shepard, Boston. Stanton & Davenport, Wheeling.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

It would be a difficult matter to decide which of Harper's periodicals to take for the coming year if there were not an admirable and really inexpensive solution of the problem in sending a combined subscription for all four. Each is independent and complete in itself, and it taken alone, seems to satisfy one's desires for what a periodical can bring; and yet no one of the four, when they are taken together, seems to be superfluous. Harper's Magazine is international in scope, but American in essence; Harper's Weekly has become indispensable as the children's illustrated paper; Harper's Bazar remains the leading fashion and home journal; and Harper's Young People has never been surpassed as an illustrated weekly for boys and girls.

POLITICS AND LAW.

Billings of the Opinion in Lower Merger.

The following is the syllabus of the decision by the Supreme Court of Appeals in State vs. D. W. McClougherty, taken up from Mercer county.

1. Our statute, section 27, chapter 147, Code 1887, regulating the punishment for the classes of contempt therein mentioned, is constitutional and binding upon Circuit and other inferior courts.

2. A Circuit Court has no power under the provisions of said statute by summary proceedings to file an attorney for writing and causing to be published in a newspaper a libelous charge against the judge of said court.

3. A Circuit court may, independent and outside of the provisions of section 6, chapter 119 of Code, 1887, strike the name of an attorney from the roll of such court for sufficient cause, without resort to summary proceedings, provided by said statute, suspend or annul the license of an attorney.

4. When an attorney commits a act, whether in the discharge of his duties as attorney or not, showing such a want of professional or personal honesty as renders him unworthy of public confidence, it is not only the province but the duty of the court, upon a proper presentation of the case, to strike his name from the roll of its attorneys.

5. The Circuit Court may by summary proceedings, according to the common law, strike from its roll the name of an attorney who is guilty of publishing a newspaper any false and libelous charge against the judge of such court in respect to his official conduct, and the disclaimer by the attorney of intentional wrong or disrespect to the judge or court will not excuse him, when the contrary appears upon a fair interpretation of the language employed.

6. Circuit courts have jurisdiction and power upon their own motion without formal complaint or petition, in a proper case, to strike the name of an attorney from the roll, provided he has reasonable notice and an opportunity to be heard.
